In this cultural chapter, students will learn

- * about an American event that marked History ;
- * discuss about the notion of "hero" and finally give a definition ;
- * write about a national hero on 3 time-writing activity.

They will be marked on their capacity to describe a person whom they consider as a hero and express gratitude towards this person. They will be invited to record their letter.

For the most courageous ones, their recording could be published on the vocational school website and even broadcast on a radio frequency.

There are some differentiated activities, directives and types of documents, related to the students' abilities, availability and presence in class.

This work intends to prepare students to the requirements of next year exam.

Digital documents and non digital documents are available in the whole document as well as how I used the contents.
